Tom Abruzzo has been specializing in disaster recovery, business continuity and contingency planning for more than 30 years. He is the president and founder of TAMP Systems, which is a DRI Certified Business Continuity Vendor (CBCV).

Tom is also the original developer of the planning software product named the Disaster Recovery System (DRS™), which decreases manual efforts to create, manage, and keep disaster recovery and business continuity plans up-to-date.

In 2005, Tom was inducted into the CPM Hall of Fame, which is an independent organization that recognizes significant contributions in the field of business continuity. From 2004 to 2007, Tom was the founding chairperson of the Contingency Planning Exchange Group (CPE) Long Island Chapter, which is an education and information sharing group of practitioners. Tom is currently a board member of the CPE.

Tom was the developer of the first contingency plan for the World's fifth largest financial institution in 1977. Tom and his company are currently providing solutions for the continuity of business and technical operations in a wide variety of industries.
